PROPERTY IS SUBJECT TO RECOVERY

JUDGE CAMPBELL HOLDS RULE OF INTERIOR DEPARTMENT HAS FULL FORCE AND EFFECT AS LAW.

Property held in trust by the government and which bears the U. S. I. D. brand cannot be sold or in any way be disposed of according to an opinion rendered Saturday by Judge Campbell of the Eastern District of Oklahoma in the Eastman Johnson vs. J. H. Howser case. This is the first time the court has passed directly upon this question although the court held in a case at Muskogee that property bearing this brand is not subject to taxation by the state of Oklahoma.

In the case tried here Eastman Johnson a restricted Indian of Tishomingo had sold to J. H. Howser of Milburn a team of mules bearing the U. S. I. D. brand. The government brought suit for the recovery of the property. Before the filing of the suit Howser had sold the mules for shipment to the war zone and the property could not be recovered. But the principle of law was laid down in the case and if the mules could be found they would be restored to Eastman Johnson.

Where the government has trust funds on hand for a restricted Indian certain supplies may be purchased with this trust money. Whatever is purchased whether wagon, horses, plows etc., is branded with the letters U. S. I. D. denoting that the property belongs to the United States Indian Department and is being used by the Indian without the full rights of the property. This opinion of Judge Campbell holds that the rule promulgated by the Interior Department has the full force and effect of law and the property so branded cannot be disposed of and the purchaser of such property is subject to the loss of the entire purchase price without remedy at law.

THIS IS CERTAIN

The Proof That Ardmore Readers Cannot Deny.

What could furnish stronger evidence of the efficiency of any remedy than the test of time? Thousands of people testify that Doan's Kidney Pills have brought lasting results.

Grateful endorsements should prove undoubtedly the merits of this remedy. Years ago people right in this locality testified to the relief they had derived from the use of Doan's Kidney Pills. They now confirm their testimonials. They say that time has completed the test.

W. A. Reed, carpenter, Tishomingo, Okla., says: "I suffered from disordered kidneys for many years and my back ached intensely. The action of my kidneys was irregular and the kidney secretions burned in passage. Doan's Kidney Pills removed all signs of the complaint."

More than three years later, Mr. Reed said: "The cure Doan's Kidney Pills gave me has been permanent."

TODAY FIRE PREVENTION DAY IN KANS.

GOVERNOR ISSUES PROCLAMATION ASKING THAT ALL THE TOWNS AND CITIES OF STATE TO CLEAN UP.

Topeka, Kansas, Oct. 9.—Cities and country communities in many parts of the state today are celebrating Fire Prevention Day in accordance with a proclamation issued by Governor Capper. Clean-up campaigns, fire drills, and fire-fighting demonstrations were a part of the program in many of the cities. Through the state fire marshal's department many programs have been arranged for the school children of the state.

Governor Capper's proclamation follows:

"During the last year the subject of preparedness has been before the American people constantly. 'Are our army and navy adequate to meet and repel a foreign invasion?' has supplanted all other questions in the public mind. But not all preparedness is military. There are other foes than foreign armies. This nation has more fear from dangers within than from foes without.

"Perhaps the greatest foe of the American people is carelessness, with its attendant waste of life and property. Carelessness destroys more wealth and causes more death and suffering than war. One of its most dangerous and destructive forms is manifested in the American attitude toward fire.

"The annual fire loss in America is more than 200 million dollars. The statistics gathered by the State Fire Marshal show that the Kansas fire loss is about three million dollars. And to add to the calamity, the three million dollars of lost property involves with a loss of more than one hundred lives a year, to say nothing of the hundreds of injured, many of the crippled or disfigured for life.

"For the reasons herein set forth, and in order to arouse our people to a keen sense of the fire hazard, and to induce them to take an active interest in the efforts being made to reduce the fire loss, I, Arthur Capper, governor of Kansas, do hereby proclaim that Monday, October 9, 1916, be known as

State Fire-Prevention Day And I earnestly recommend that our people observe it by general cleaning up and removing of rubbish, trash and waste from their premises.

"Let all stoves, furnaces, chimneys, and all heating apparatus be examined with care and placed in proper condition for winter use.

"Let all public and private institutions, hotels, asylums, factories and theatres be inspected carefully and all changes provided that are needful to prevent fire, and protect the occupants from danger to life and limb should fire occur.

"Let the local authorities give careful consideration to all means whereby the fire hazard of the community may be reduced and the lives and property of its citizens made safe.

"Let special attention be given by city officials to better building codes, to the end that fire-resistant construction may be encouraged.

"Let the fire-fighting equipment of every city be inspected carefully on that day, and such additions and improvements provided as may be declared necessary.

"Let fire drills be held on that day in institutions, in factories, in public parochial and private schools.

"Let all teachers give special attention in their schools on that day to the discussion of the dangers of fire and the simpler means for its prevention."

Eggs Hard as Bullets.

If less meat, shall we eat super-bolled eggs after the manner of the Albanians? It testifies to the strength of their digestions. An equal number of eggs and onions are boiled together for about three hours daily on ten successive days, the eggs being slightly pricked after each boil so that the juice of the onions thoroughly permeates them. They are, naturally, as hard as bullets at the end of this treatment; but an Albanian will bolt down a huge plateful—helped down by lashings of olive oil—and then clamor for a second helping.

Merely a Clerical Error.

The amusing blunders into which he may fall who attempts to translate from one language to another without a thorough mastery of the idioms of both are exemplified by the preacher who, wishing to make a good impression upon a few Englishmen who he knew were among his auditors, started their ears by his rendering of the familiar text of the Vulgate: Spiritus quidem promptus est, caro autem infirma, as "The ghost indeed is willful, but the meat is not strong."—London Chronicle.
